

is the author of East London for Mosley: the British Union of Fascists in East London and South-West Essex, 1933-1940 (Frank Cass, 1996), and British Fascism, 1918-39: Parties, Ideology and Culture (Manchester University Press, 2000). He lectures in history at Brunel University. He is a graduate of the University of York, and received his doctorate from Royal Holloway and Bedford New College, University of London.

has published articles on Richard Brautigan and James Thurber, in addition to his own poetry and fiction. He teaches at the North Carolina School of the Arts, Winston-Salem. He received his doctorate from the University of California, Davis, in 1998.

is Assistant Professor of English at Kent State University, Stark Campus, in Canton, Ohio, where he teaches creative writing, literature, and composition. He is author of three poetry chapbooks: The Seamless Serial Hour, On the Off-Ramp, and the Wick Award-winning