

Notes on Contributors

Paul Bowman is Senior Lecturer in Cultural Studies at Roehampton University, London. He is the author of Post-Marxism versus Cultural Studies: Theory, Politics and Intervention (Edinburgh University Press, 2007), editor of the view book Interrogating Cultural Studies: Theory, Politics and Practice (Routledge, 2003) and co-editor of The Truth of Zizek (Continuum, 2007). He has been an editor of the journal Parallax and has also been “Marxist and post-Marxist” Scholarship Reviewer for The Year’s Work in Critical and Cultural Theory (Oxford University Press). He has written for such journals as Parallax, Culture Machine, Strategies, Contemporary Politics and contributed chapters to The Edinburgh Encyclopaedia of Modern Criticism and Theory (Edinburgh University Press), Cultural Studies and Interdisciplinary Theory (Routledge), New Cultural Studies: Adventures in Theory (Edinburgh University Press), and Modern British and Irish Criticism and Theory (Edinburgh University Press). He has also given lectures and faculty seminars in the United States, Germany, England and Hong Kong.